

Rising Pre-K Summer Reading

Dear Parents,

Attached you will find a reading log to complete with your child during the summer. Research has shown that the single greatest factor in predicting reading success is whether a child is read to when young. Try to read one book each day this summer! Complete the attached reading log and return it to your teacher on the first day of school. Visit your local library to find a variety of books for your child to enjoy or you can read books you already have at home.

Along with reading with your child, please practice the following skills at home before starting school in August:

- Button and unbutton pants and shorts
- Using the restroom independently
- Using a tissue and washing hands with soap
- Opening and closing lunch containers and drinks
- Zipping a jacket
- Tying shoelaces
